

175 MINERS ARE TRAPPED

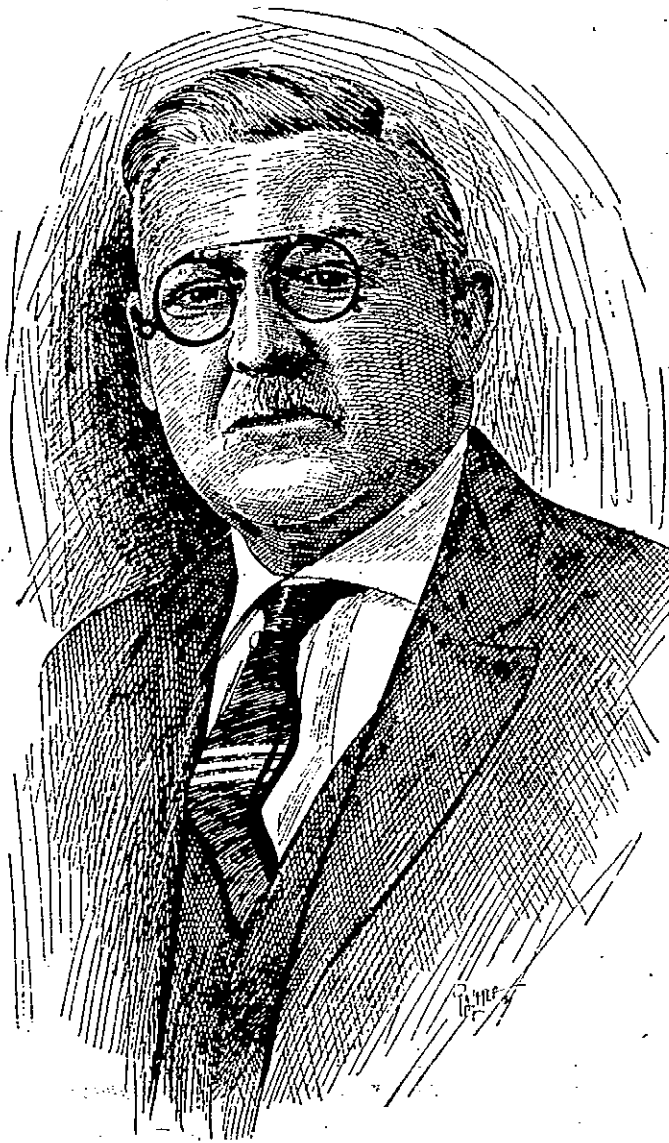

MEN WHO HELPED MAKE PORTSMOUTH

Brief Sketches of Their Lives, Which Should Be An Inspiration to All; Opportunities In Portsmouth for the Hard-working, Conscientious Young Man Just As Good As Anywhere Else In The World

One of those unaccountable turns of Fortune's Wheel brought Phillip M. Streich to Portsmouth, but genuine belief in the business possibilities of the town kept him here.

Born in Circleville, Ohio, August 6, 1861, Phillip M. Streich was the eldest of ten children in the family of Casper Streich, a minister in the United Brethren church. After the fashion of ministers the family moved often, and Phillip had lived in Cincinnati, Zanesville, Dayton, and various other cities before coming to Portsmouth. While he was just a boy he entered the drug business in Dayton and when the family moved to Olney, Illinois, found employment in the same business there. When the Rev. Streich was called to the United Brethren church in Portsmouth, Phillip remained in the drug store in Olney. His mother's illness brought him to Portsmouth in 1877 and he has remained here since that time. He found employment, immediately with George Fisher, whose pharmacy occupied the corner at Sixth and Chillicothe streets, where the Fisher and Streich Pharmacy has been located ever since its organization. After two years in the drug store Mr. Streich entered the Cincinnati College of Pharmacy, from which he was graduated in 1881. After passing his examination and receiving his certificate as a registered pharmacist he obtained a position with the J. F. Davis Drug Company, where he was in charge of the prescription and retail department. This position he held for 11 years. In 1891 Mr. Streich bought a half interest in the Fisher drug store and the name was changed to Fisher and Streich. After more than 12 years of partnership Mr. Streich purchased the entire business, which he has operated in the same location ever since.

In 1884 Mr. Streich was married to Louisa Ebert, of Portsmouth. They have three children: Ralph, who is associated with his father in the drug business, Edna, a teacher in the local public schools, and Ruth, a student at Otterbein College. Mr. Streich is a member of the First United Brethren church, where he is a trustee and a member of the official board, a 32nd degree Mason, member of the Knights Templar and the Scottish Rite. Through his membership in the Chamber of Commerce he takes an active interest in the upbuilding of the community. He served as member of the Board of Education for nine years.

Mr. Streich has been for a number of years actively interested in Republican politics. He was the delegate from this district to the National Convention in Chicago in 1912 and is a candidate for the same position this year. Mr. Streich has seen Portsmouth grow from 11,000 population to more than 40,000 in the years since he has lived here. "The expense of conducting a business has multiplied many times in that period of years," says Mr. Streich, "but in spite of that fact the opportunities here are even greater than they were when some of us 'old timers' started in business."

Curtis Denies Bennett's Charges But Editor Adds To Previous Accusations

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 8.—(By the Associated Press)—Senator Curtis, of Kansas, the assistant Republican leader, took the witness stand voluntarily before the Oil Committee today and denied under oath some of the statements made about him yesterday in the testimony of Ira A. Bennett, an editorial writer for the Washington Post.

The Kansas senator declared that some of the conversations described by Bennett never took place, that he had performed no services for Edward B. McLean like those attributed to him by Bennett and that there was absolutely no ground for attempting to link him with the mysterious "principal" mentioned in one of Bennett's telegrams to McLean.

Later Bennett again was called upon to explain. He repeated some of his previous statements and brought in some new ones, which in turn, immediately were denied by Senator Curtis. The editorial writer did not contend, however, that there had been anything to, open in the senator's attitude toward the oil disclosure.

Senator Curtis advised President Coolidge to get rid of Attorney General Daugherty on the grounds of Daugherty's ill health. Bennett testified.

"Curtis told me that the new president had asked him for some advice about the new duties imposed on him. Curtis said he advised him to get rid of a certain cabinet officer—it was Attorney General Daugherty," said Bennett.

"He said he told the president that Daugherty was in ill health and that he would blame him if he changed his attorney general."

"President Coolidge said he did not want Daugherty to resign because he had several important cases pending," Bennett said Curtis told him.

INCREASE OF DUTY ON WHEAT PRODUCTS

WASHINGTON, March 8.—Putting into operation for the first time the flexible provisions of the tariff act, President Coolidge has ordered increases of twelve cents a bushel in the duty on wheat imports and twenty-six cents a hundred pounds on wheat flour, advancing these two rates, respectively, to forty-two cents and $1.06. At the same time the ad valorem rate on mill feeds has been decreased from fifteen per cent, as fixed in the law, to seven and one-half per cent.

The new rates, established by a proclamation issued yesterday by the President on the basis of information gathered at his direction by the Tariff Commission, will become effective thirty days from the date of his action and therefore will be operative at the beginning of the usual April flood of wheat imports from Canada.

The wheat rate at present is thirty cents a bushel and that on flour seventy-eight cents a hundred pounds, but the commission found that in Canada, "the principal competing country" in the general wheat could be grown at a cost forty-two cents a bushel lower than in the United States and that 100 pounds of flour could be produced for $1.01 less. The difference between the costs of producing mill feeds in the two countries, however, amounted to only three-tenths of one cent a hundred pounds. The new $1.06 rate applies to semolina, crushed or cracked wheat and similar products, as well as flour.

Daugherty Still Silent

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 8.—(By the Associated Press)—Attorney General Daugherty's return to Washington has brought no outward sign of a new and more acute crisis in his cabinet status, but the feeling persists in his quarters that his retirement is imminent.

The under current of expectancy eddying around the attorney general, received no stimulus from his activities yesterday. He came back from Miami after a ninety-day trip apparently in better health than when he left, attended the regular cabinet meeting, joined other officials in silence about his status and went to work on the legal aspects of the house resolution requesting the names of the two members of congress charged in the Chicago grand jury report, with having misused their influence.

Meanwhile, coinciding with his return, his name was brought into the oil inquiry definitely with reference to the efforts that were made to keep Edward B. McLean off the stand. Senator Wheeler, Democrat, Montana, who will act as prosecutor in the Daugherty investigation, pressed forward his work today with a view to opening the inquiry Tuesday or Wednesday.

Daniels Paved Way For Oil Reserve Leases

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 8.—(By the United Press)—Landing of the naval oil reserve was made possible by suggestion first made to congress by Joseph Daniels, navy secretary in the Wilson administration. Secretary of the Navy Donahy told the House naval affairs committee today. Daniels in a letter to the house committee on March 5, 1920, suggested legislation permitting the navy department to operate the naval reserve directly or by contract lease or otherwise. This suggestion was enacted into law in 1920, Donahy said.

Serious Charges Lodged Against Franklin Co. Sheriff

COLUMBUS, O., March 8.—Governor Donahy announced today that "serious charges" of lax law enforcement have been lodged with him against Sheriff Frank Holyross, of Franklin county and that Holyross will be given a trial under the Miller act to determine whether he should be removed from office. The charges were filed by the State Probation Department and were referred to the attorney general. Their exact nature has not been disclosed.

Decline To Bare Names Of Solons

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 8.—(By the Associated Press)—The Department of Justice declined today to disclose the names of the two representatives referred to in the Chicago grand jury report.

Attorney General Daugherty offered, however, to transmit to the house in response to its request, evidence said to indicate improper use of influence.

Mr. Daugherty took the position he could not disclose the identity of the two representatives as asked in the house resolution until the department had an opportunity to more carefully go into the charges against them.

He offered to withhold further action by the department in the case to enable a house committee to examine the evidence and develop the truth of the charges.

Mr. Zihlman declared he had it on good authority that John W. H. Crin, who represented the Department of Justice in the Chicago grand jury proceedings had disclosed to some persons his name and that of another house member in connection with the charges.

Declaring he wanted action and full investigation of charges which might concern him, he declared he could "demonstrate to the house and the country that he had been guilty of no wrong doing."

"I have no fear," asserted the Maryland member, who is chairman of the Labor Committee, "but that I will be able to clear my name."

While Mr. Zihlman was speaking, seated directly in front of him was Representative Langley, Democrat, Kentucky, who yesterday told the house that he had information that he was involved but that he was innocent of any charges.

New Fight Over Revenue Bill

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 8.—(By the Associated Press)—While the Senate Finance Committee proceeded with consideration of the revenue bill today, a new fight involving this measure broke out in the house.

Proponents of the administration move to take from the bill the provision for a twenty-five per cent reduction in income taxes payable this year and seek its enactment in a resolution before March 15, when first installments are due, faced opposition from members of both parties.

The step was described by Democrats as opening the way for a presidential veto of the revenue bill. Republicans who backed the compromise income tax schedule in preference to the Mellon rates also expressed this view and argued, in addition, that elimination of the retroactive provision from the bill might result in delaying its enactment.

Demand for reforms in the administration of the income tax laws were made in a report addressed to members of congress today by the National Industrial Conference Board of New York.

Congress Urged To Take Quick Action On 25 Percent Reduction On Income Tax

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
(Copyright, 1924.)
WASHINGTON, March 8.—Both houses of Congress are being urged to take instant action on reference to the 25 per cent reduction on the income of the calendar year 1923 payable on the fifteenth of this month.

Separation of the proposal relating to 1923 incomes from the bill containing the general tax revision effective January 1, 1924, now appears inevitable. Both the Republicans and Democrats are agreed that the present law can more readily be amended by the passage of a joint resolution which refers only to 1923 incomes so consideration of the whole tax revision may not be complicated with the problems before the American taxpayer who are working out their tax returns this month.

The Democrats would like to see the joint resolution put into effect not with a 25 per cent reduction along the line, but with the Garner rates. This would mean a greater reduction than 25 per cent and so far as the higher incomes are concerned not as much as 25 per cent.

Under the circumstances, the actual work of checking up the returns for 1923 will be subject to a good deal of confusion. The treasury insists that if any legislation proposes of 1923 incomes is passed it should be a simple 25 per cent reduction so that when auditing the returns the same administrative machinery now engaged in examining the returns can be used and the one fourth reduction easily calculated.

The Republicans have the votes to pass a 25 per cent reduction if the joint resolution is pressed for action and there seems to be a desire to

Caliph Flees To Switzerland
GENEVA, Switzerland, March 8.—(By the Associated Press)—The deposed Caliph, Abdul Medjid, will be allowed to stay in Switzerland on the same conditions imposed in the cases of other refugee rulers, the Federal Council has decided. Abdul Medjid, accompanied by his son, two wives and a suite of ten persons, arrived last night at Territet, on the north shore of Lake Geneva. He brought with him a mountain of baggage. The Swiss authorities had not been advised of his coming and the first they knew of it was when the Orient express reached the frontier.

Steps Taken To Form Lions' Club Here

Steps to form a branch of the Lions' Club in Portsmouth were taken at a meeting held in the Elks Club last night. Formation of the club is expected to be completed at a meeting to be held next Friday night.

Ed Johnson, field director, and Charles Wagner, district director, were present at last night's meeting, and spoke to the local men interested in the club, emphasizing the principles of "Lionism."

In the course of his address, Mr. Johnson expressed appreciation for the cooperation and interest shown by members of the Rotary, Kiwanis, and Exchange clubs in the new movement, outlined by Mr. Johnson, the code of Lionism is:

- 1.—To show my faith in the worthiness of my nation by industrious application for quality of service.
- 2.—To seek success and to demand of fair remuneration or profit as my just due, but to accept no profit or success at the price of my own self-respect lost because of unfair advantage taken or because of questionable acts on my part.
- 3.—To remember that in building up my business it is not necessary to tear down another's; to be loyal to my clients or customers and true to myself.
- 4.—Whenever a doubt arises as to the right or ethics of my position or action towards my fellow men, to resolve such doubt against myself.

5.—To hold friendship as an end and not a means. To hold that true friendship exists not on account of the service performed by one to another, but that true friendship demands nothing but accepts service in the spirit in which it is given.

6.—Always to bear in mind my obligations as a citizen to my nation, my state and my community, and to give to them my unswerving loyalty in word, act and deed. To give them freely of my time, labor and means.

7.—To aid my fellow men by giving my sympathy to those in distress, and to the weak, and my substance to the need.

8.—To be careful with my criticisms and liberal with my praise; to build up and not destroy.

The Lions Club is composed of one member for each classification of business. At the meeting next Friday night officers will be elected. A little later a charter meeting will be held, with delegations here from the Cincinnati and Ironton Lions' Clubs.

Clifford Says He Was Not Arrested By Dry Officer; Witness Missing; Trial Continued

Absence of a material witness for the prosecution caused a continuance of the trial of Harrison "Nick" Clifford, 714 Tenth street, in Municipal court yesterday after Judge Sprague had heard evidence for and against the defendant, charged by three separate complaints with violation of the dry laws and with assault and battery upon George T. Walters, Jr., recently deposed "card" prohibition officer. The hearing was postponed until Stanley Hunt, taxi driver, the missing witness, can be brought into court to testify, and unless Hunt can identify Clifford as the man who furnished the liquor, Judge Harry Ball, who appeared for the state, frankly admitted that the prosecution must still "because of failure to prove the charges by that degree of proof necessary in such cases."

The charges against Clifford grew out of an alleged transaction which occurred on the night of February 27 last, when Walters claimed he was assaulted by Clifford after he had placed him under arrest at Eleventh and Chillicothe streets and after the defendant had brought him four half pints of moonshine liquor. The dry officer claimed that about ten o'clock on the night in question he called a taxi cab which was driven by Stanley Hunt and upon asking the latter where he could obtain some liquor was taken to the Dan Jarrell establishment on Chillicothe street. Walters stated that Hunt entered the place, leaving him in the machine, and returned in a few minutes with Clifford, who, the witness said, asked him how many he wanted and that he replied, "four." The officer then testified that Clifford got in the machine and they drove out Chillicothe street as far as Eleventh where he said Clifford left the car and told him to wait, but presently returned and handed him four half pints, bottles of moonshine, and continuing the witness said, "I asked him if he had change for $10, but instead handed him a 'one' and told Clifford, 'guess I want you,' and grabbed him. He declared that as he attempted to slip the handcuffs on Clifford, the prisoner jerked loose and after striking him (Walters) in the face, ran away, disappearing down an alley. The witness positively identified Clifford as the man from whom he procured the liquor which was offered in evidence. Walters claimed he had not been dismissed as a "card" officer by the state prohibition department and he denied that he had at any time received any fees or remuneration for his services as a dry officer.

The defense in a motion offered by Attorney Harry W. Miller and Howard

York to dismiss the charges, attacked the legality of the whole proceeding and questioned the authority of the arresting officer, who has since been signed of his power, according to dispatches from Columbus. The motion was overruled.

Clifford on the stand in his own behalf stoutly denied seeing Walters on the night in question or any other time until he was called into court to meet the present charges. The accused attempted to prove an alibi by claiming that he was at his home in bed at the time the liquor transaction is alleged to have occurred. He testified that after attending a picture show with his wife on the evening of Feb. 27, he stopped at the Jarrell soft drink stand and went home shortly before 9 o'clock in response to a phone call from his wife.

The defendant's story was corroborated by the evidence of Charles Shaw and W. W. Frazier, city patrolman, who said they saw Clifford at the Jarrell place and that he left before nine o'clock. Shaw stated that Hunt was in the café later and asked him where he could secure some liquor and that a "stranger" wearing a sheepskin coat, followed Hunt outside when he left.

The continuance followed to give opportunity to bring Hunt into court in an effort to identify the defendant as the man who furnished the liquor.

Tar Catches Fire At Steel Plant

The equipment from the Gallia and New Boston fire stations was summoned to the local works of the Wheeling Steel Corporation shortly after five o'clock Friday evening to fight a stubborn blaze in the red and wire mill department, which originated, it is believed, when sparks from a "salamander" furnace were blown into a large tank, igniting the tar it contained.

I Shot, One Stabbed During Primary Riot

KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 8.—(By The A. P.)—One man was shot, another stabbed, and several others badly beaten in a riot attending the Democratic primary meeting at the South Side court house tonight.

Rival factions of the second ward battled for possession of the courtroom until the disturbance was quelled by 100 policemen.

One faction filled the courtroom early this morning and held it until tonight in order to control the selection of delegates to the Democratic state convention.

Leading a donkey, symbol of democracy, another faction appeared and demanded admission.

Fighting followed and several shots were fired.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Colonel Holles, soldier and adventurer, returns to England, his native land, when war with Holland is declared. It is dangerous for Holles to secure a commission in the English army because the name of Randall Holles, father of the colonel, is on the warrant for the execution of the king. A friend of the colonel, named Tucker, is arrested for plotting against the government. Because Holles has been seen in Tucker's company a warrant is also out for his arrest.

His Grace of Buckingham hires Holles to abduct the actress, Sylvia Farquharson. It is dark when the colonel carries her off and, when he arrives at the house rented by Buckingham, Holles is horror struck when he sees that Sylvia is a former sweetheart of his. Sylvia is horrified.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
"Will you not realize that there is no time to lose? That if you stay here you are lost? Go, go, go! If you will. Return home at once. But since you must go, and you may presently be pursued, suffer me at least to follow after you, to do what I can to make you safe. Trust me in this for your own sake trust me. In God's name!"

"Trust you," she echoed, and almost she seemed to laugh. "You? After this?"

"Aye, after this. Because of this, I may be as vile as you are deeming me; not a doubt I am. But I never could have been vile to you. It may not excuse me to protest that I did not know it was against you that I was acting. But it should make you believe that I am ready to defend you now—now that I know."

This time he caught her by the wrist, and maintained his hold against her faint attempt to liberate herself. He attempted to draw her after him across the room. A moment she hung back, resisting still.

"For God's sake!" he implored her softly. "At any moment Buckingham may arrive."

This time she yielded to a spur that earlier her passion had made her disregard. Between such evils there could be no choice. She looked into his livid gleaming face, distorted by his anguish and anxiety.

"I can trust you in this? If I trust you, you will hear me safely home." You swear it?"

"As God's my witness!" he sobbed in his impatience.

There was an end to her resistance now. More she displayed a sudden urgency that matched his own.

"Quick! Quick, then," she panted. "And then, just as they reached the door, it was thrust open from without, and the tall, graceful figure of the Duke of Buckingham, his curled fair hair almost touching the linoleum floor before him, a flush of fevered expectancy on his handsome face, in his right hand he held his heavily feathered hat; his left rested on the hilt of the light dress rapier he was wearing.

The pair recoiled before him, and Holles loosed her wrist upon the swift, instinctive apprehension that here he was like to need his hands for other things.

His grace was all in glittering satin, black and white like a napier, with jewels in the lace at his throat and a baldric of garter blue across his breast.

A moment he stood there at gaze, with narrowing eyes, puzzled by something odd in their attitudes, and looking from Miss Farquharson's pale, startled loveliness to the stiff, grim figure of her companion. Then he came slowly forward, leaving the door wide behind him. He bowed low to the lady without speaking; as he came erect again it was to the Colonel that he addressed himself.

"All should be here, I think," he said, waving a hand toward table and sideboard.

Holles half-turned to follow the gesture, and he stood a moment as if pondering the supper equipment, glad of that moment in which to weigh the situation. Out there, in the hall, somewhere just beyond that open door, would be waiting, he knew, Buckingham's four French lackeys, who at their master's bidding would think no more of slitting his throat than of slicing the glazed capon on the sideboard vander. His life had come suddenly to matter very much. He must go very warily.

The Duke's voice, sharp with impatience, roused him.

"Well, hooby? Will you stand there all night considering?"

Holles turned.

"All is here, under your grace's hand, I think," he said quietly.

"Then you may take yourself off," Holles bowed submissively. He dared not look at Nan; but he caught the sudden gasp of her breath, and without looking beheld her start, and imagined the renewed horror and wide-eyed scorn in which she regarded this fresh display of cowardice and villainy.

He stalked to the door, the Duke's eyes following him with odd suspicion, puzzled ever by that something here which he perceived, but whose significance eluded him. Holding the door of the open door in his hand, Holles half-turned again. He was still playing for time in which to decide upon his course of action.

"Your grace, I take it, will not require me further tonight?"

His grace considered. Beyond the Duke Holles had a glimpse of Nan, standing wide-eyed, livid as death, leaning against the table, her right hand pressed upon her heaving breast as if to control its tumult.

"No," said his grace slowly, at last. "Yet you had best remain at hand with Francois and the others."

"Very well," said Holles, and turned to go. The key was, he observed, on the outside of the door. He stooped and withdrew it from the lock. "Your grace would perhaps prefer the key on the inside," he said, with an odious smirk, and whilst his grace impatiently shrugged his indifference, Holles made the transference.

Having made it, he closed the door swiftly, and he had quietly turned the key in the lock. Withdrawing and pocketed it before his grace recovered from his surprise at the eccentricity of his behavior.

Holles, his shoulders to the door, showed a face that was now grim and set. He cast from him again the hat and cloak which he had been holding.

"It is, your grace, that I desire a word in private with you, safe from the inconvenient intrusion of your lackeys."

The Duke drew himself up, very stiff and stern, not a little intrigued as you conceive by all this; but quite master of himself.

"Proceed, sir," he said coldly. "Let us have the explanation of this insolence, that so we may make an end of it."

"That is soon afforded," Holles, too, spoke quietly. "This lady, your grace, is a friend of mine, an old friend, I did not know it until I had conveyed her hither. Upon discovering it, I would have escorted her hence again, and I was about to do so when your grace arrived. I have now to ask you to pledge me your word of honor that you will do nothing to prevent our peaceful departure—that you will offer no hindrance either in word or person or in that of your servants."

For a long moment, Buckingham stood considering him without moving from the spot where he stood, midway between Holles and the girl, his shoulder to the latter. Beyond a heightening of the color about his eyes and cheekbones, he gave no sign of emotion. He even smiled, though not quite pleasantly.

"But how simple," he said, with a little laugh. Then his voice hardened. "And should I refuse to pledge my word, what does Colonel Holles propose?"

"It will be very bad for your grace," said Holles.

"The Duke's whole manner changed, he plucked off his mask of arrogant languor."

"By God!" he ejaculated, and his voice was rasping as a file. "That is enough of this insolence, my man. You'll unlock that door at once, and so your ways, or I'll call my men to beat you to a jelly."

"It was not your grace should be tempted to such ungentle measures that I took the precaution to lock the door," Holles was smooth as velvet.

George S. Morgan

Candidate For Probate Judge, Subject To The Decision Of The Voters Of Scioto County At The Primary, August 12

In asking your support at the polls I believe it is no more than right to give you in detail the history of my life and my aspirations so you may judge whether I would have the right viewpoint toward those placed under my jurisdiction, and whether I am the kind of a man to fill properly, the office to which I aspire.

I was born in Scioto county on the second day of June, 1878. When I was but seven months old my father died, and left a widow and mother with three little children, Jerry 7 years old; Mary, 4 and myself, George S., 7 months old. The burden of keeping a home for these little ones was more than my mother could stand and she was forced to place us in the Children's home. I was two years old when this happened, and under the care of the matron at that time, Mrs. Mabel Booser, I soon developed into a healthy, fat baby. As the years rolled by and I became of school age I began my studies under the careful attention of Miss Alice Comins, who was assisted by Miss Kate Comins, her sister. I progressed rapidly under the guidance of these splendid girls. Better attention could not have been given children than these ladies gave us.

Many others were also kind and good to us. I remember how we little fellows would ask Miss McCord if we could open the gate for Mr. John G. Peebles, so as to get a nickel. He never failed to throw a nickel or dime to the little one who performed this service and we would "lay" for him for hours so as to be on hand to open the gate.

As I think of the twelve years that I spent at the Scioto County Children's Home I recall many dear ones, some of whom have passed into Everlasting Rest, whose work and sympathy helped many orphans to grow into good men and women, and I am sure that they feel as I do like a son or a daughter to them. Among those who were kind to us I recall Mr. John G. Peebles, Sr., Mr. John G. Peebles, Jr., Mr. Nichols, Mr. Titus, Mr. Silcox, Dr. Titus, Mrs. McCord, Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Booser, Mrs. Roush, Miss Alice Comins, Miss Kate Comins, and many others. They were all lovers of children and proud that they could help such a flock.

The time came when I was old enough to be sent out to a private family, but not being used to bad and rough treatment I left and started out to make my own way.

I worked for my board and clothes, but in lots of places I got nothing but work, very little board and no clothes. But I was upheld by a stout will and determination that I would make something of myself and I kept working away, gradually bettering my condition. I have never known anything but work, a continual striving to prepare myself for something better in the future. The old saying "He was born with a silver spoon in his mouth," certainly never has applied to me.

So I feel that today I am justified from the struggle that I have made in my 44 years of life in saying that I am really a self-made man, and I give credit for whatever success I have achieved to the dear ones who helped raise me when I was a little boy, who taught me, and gave me aspirations to make something out of myself. I will never forget them.

Not being like like boys with fathers and mothers to call upon for help or a home, I put up with what I could get and thanked the Lord that I had health. I have been blessed by being able to secure an education and I have tried to use it in a manner to make a man of myself instead of an outcast.

Today I am asking the citizens of Scioto county to get behind me and to help me finish what I have in mind to do—to get to a place where I can help make something of somebody else's child who may be in need of a friend. Being a sincere lover of children I have a great desire to become Probate Judge and if elected by the voters, men and women of Scioto county I will assure you of an administration that all fathers and mothers and all interested in such affairs will be proud of.

My first care will be to take care of the children and at the same time I will see that the other business of the office is carefully looked after. I respectfully submit my candidacy for your consideration.

CAMERAGRAMS

TRY IT some morning before breakfast. Miss Madeline Berle says winter makes no difference with her when she wants to have a good time on the beach. In case you don't know, this picture was not taken at Palm Beach but at Washington, on the coast Potomac.

DRESS BEING DICTATED largely by custom, this man, a South Sea warrior, is by way of being a Beau Brummel in the eyes of his countrymen. The insignia of his rank hangs from his neck; he is carrying his spear and shield, and the bow of his fighting canoe is shown in the background.

SOLDIER'S BONUS is the thing he is fighting for. He is John R. Quinn, national commander of the American Legion, who was a recent caller at the White House, where he conferred with President Calvin Coolidge on that little matter of adjusted compensation.

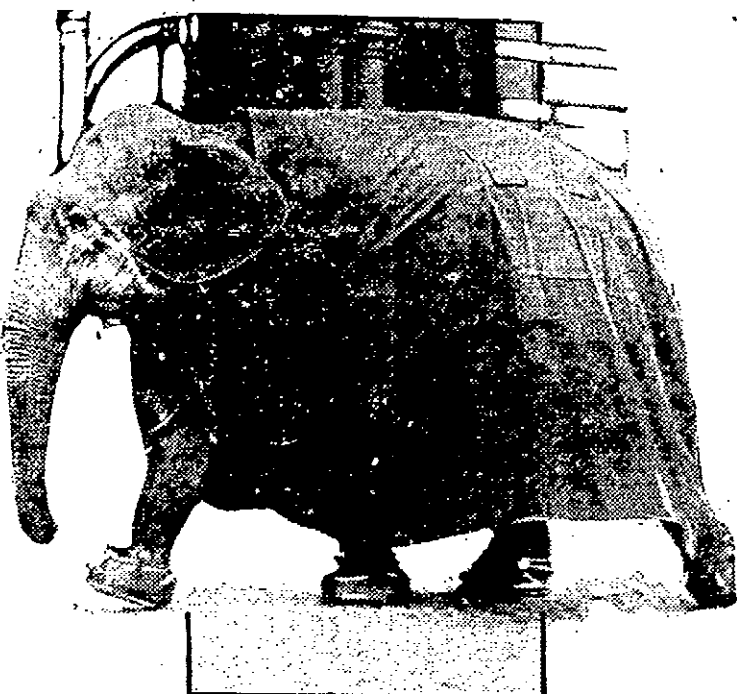

AMBULANCE HOUND, some might call him, but he is "Wolf," a prize-winning police dog, belonging to a Washington physician. Wolf invariably accompanies his master, Dr. Cudney, on ambulance rides from Emergency Hospital in Washington.

THE LAST WORD IN PAJAMAS. Or, as they say in that dear Paris "le dernier cri." Miss Mary Durean, who's wearing them, says she wanted something snappy and at the same time comfortable, so she sent to Paris and had these silk ones imported. She says she really sleeps in them, too.

PITY POOR PAULINE? Nothing doing. Pauline Highhouse of Warren, Pa., and her brother, Leonard, like the snow so well they take a bath in it every day. This picture was taken at 8:30 in the morning with the thermometer 14 degrees below zero. "Good fun and healthful exercise," says Pauline. How would you like to try it in your own back yard?

ALL DRESSED UP FOR WINTER. Here we see Horatius, a circus elephant, protected against the Canadian cold. Not being fond of the frigid atmosphere of Hamilton, Ont., Horatius takes precautions against Jack Frost by wearing his overshoes, ear flaps and an overcoat before he ventures outdoors.

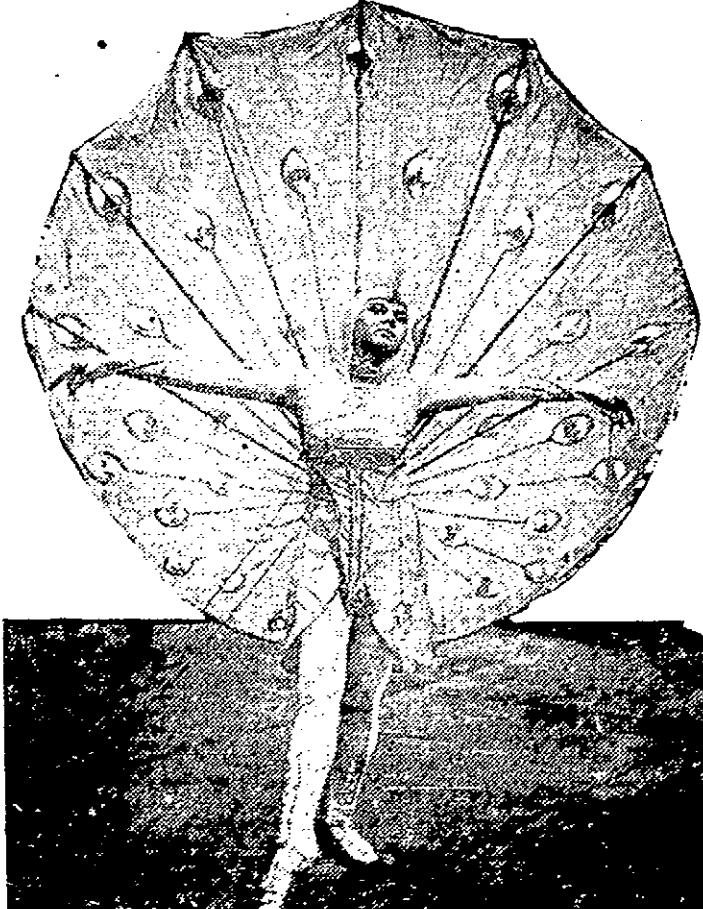

SHE'S A NEW face among society folk at the national capital. In fact, she is the first woman from Estonia to occupy a place in official life in Washington. She is Mrs. Antonia Pip, wife of the new Estonian envoy to the United States.

YOU'LL HAVE TO MAKE ANOTHER GUESS. These girls are not street cleaners. They are college damsels, making wintry college sidewalks safe for democracy. Left to right: Kathryn Grant of Geneva, N. Y.; Wilma Shannon of Rochester, N. Y.; Margaret Burdham of Portland, Me.

A LITTLE LESSON IN BOOKKEEPING is being studied here by Miss Myrtle Cunny, University of California co-ed, from a book 429 years old. The book, recently presented to the university by an anonymous graduate, was printed in 1494 and is believed to be the first work on bookkeeping ever printed.

THE PEACOCK STRUT is the name of the dance being performed here by Miss Margarite Weighell. Margarite, who is well known in her home town of Washington, D. C., for her dancing ability, is much in demand at social functions. She is only 13 years old.

SEASON'S FIRST. Here is Miss Jane Hopkins, the first Washington debutante of the present season to announce her engagement. Miss Hopkins is the daughter of Mrs. Earle Palmer Hopkins. The lucky man is Charles E. Lohdell of Kansas and Washington.

THIS MIGHT SEEM LIKE A THRILLING PASTIME, but it's just part of the daily routine for these lusty young men. They are cavalrymen at Fort Bliss, El Paso, Tex., performing a few equestrian feats. First glance at the picture reveals only two horses. But look again and you'll see another almost entirely hidden from view by his stablemate.

Miss Dolly Wise

She is here to answer any and all questions concerning love, matrimony, troubles, woes, etiquette, etc. Inquiries should be addressed to Miss Dolly Wise, care The Daily Times, Portsmouth, Ohio.

Dear Dolly—I am an old soldier 77 years of age and a bachelor. If you know any old woman that wants a good home please publish it in The Times.

A LONESOME BACHELOR.
As it is leap year the mere publication of this letter ought to bring you plenty of applications.

Dear Dolly—Will you please tell me how to take hair off my arms and face and to take blackheads off my face. And what is good for chapped hands?

I cannot give trade names in this column. There are several hair-removal depilatories which I can tell you of if you care to send a stamped addressed envelope. To get rid of blackheads, wash your face thoroughly with warm water and a pure soap every night. While your face is warm from the hot water gently press out the blackheads with your finger-tips carefully wrapped in soft cloths so as not to bruise or infect the flesh. Then sponge your face with alcohol.

Dear Dolly—There is a girl in Middletown whose name I would like to know. I am going on a farm and want a girl to do my cooking. If you can find what her name is let me know. I am 23 years old and weigh 178 pounds. She is the prettiest girl in town.

G. M. T.
Dolly may be wise but she is no mind reader. How can I find the name of a girl merely by knowing that she is the "prettiest girl in town"? Ideas of beauty differ you know. "Faint heart never won fair lady."

TOBACCO DEALERS HIT BY ORDER OF

WASHINGTON, March 8.—By the A. P.—Two orders forbidding wholesale tobacco dealers from "combining and conspiring for the purpose of fixing prices" were issued today by the Federal Trade Commission.

One was directed against members of the Cincinnati Wholesale Tobacco Association and the P. Commissioner Van Fleet, dissented from the majority of his associates on the commission insofar as the orders affected the American Tobacco Company.

In Cincinnati, members of the association restricted by the order were said to have obtained uniform discounts in purchases from the Lorillard company, and this corporation, engaged in manufacturing, was said to have suggested that the Cincinnati jobbers get together and fix uniform prices on tobacco products.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

by Olive Roberts Barton

THE OBLIGING PIG

"Oh, dear," cried Nancy as an idea struck her. "Yes, sir," said the Scarecrow of Beantalk Land, shaking his woolly straw head. "There is a treasure buried right there where that mound is, as sure as you're alive. I heard the thieves quite plainly even if it was too dark to see their faces. And by daylight they were gone. I've been dying of curiosity ever since."

"Come on, Nancy, let's dig down and find out," cried Nick. "Maybe it's the rest of the treasure that Jack's giant hid."

So the two children set to work with a will, but they had no shovels and soon got very tired. "We're dissatisfied together," said Nick. "You've done us quite a favor."

"You're welcome!" said the pig. "But I guess I'll be going. My mouth is watering more than ever for a truffle, too."

"When he last saw the Scarecrow said in a weak voice, 'Oh, do hurry and open the box, children, for that must be what it is. I'm getting weak with excitement.'"

But the twins couldn't budge the heavy lid any more than you could the roof of a schoolhouse.

"Go to the prince!" said the Scarecrow, "and bring the king and queen. Most likely it is theirs anyway. Who else would have such a fortune?"

So off to the palace of Beantalk Land trudged the twins.

There stood the bald-headed gatekeeper in the 20 stiff servants just as they had left them. And all the lords and ladies, too. And there sat the king and queen and the court, everybody just as though nothing had happened.

Tells Senator to Repudiate Coolidge's Assaults

BOSTON, March 8.—(By the A. P.)—An appeal to United States Senator Wallace, Democrat, of Massachusetts, to repudiate those Democratic assaults upon the character of an honest man, was telegraphed today by Governor Clanning H. Cox, of Massachusetts. The telegram said:

"Calvin Coolidge is today president of the United States. In private he is an honest citizen of Massachusetts. When for contemptible partisan purposes, an attempt is made to besmirch the fair name which all honest, fair-minded men know he has earned, does not your duty to your countryman transcend any question of party interest?"

"Our citizens, regardless of party affiliations, would have been gratified to have you stand shoulder to shoulder with Senator Lodge yesterday in repudiating and repelling the baseless and reprehensible Democratic attacks on President Coolidge. In the name of fairness, I appeal to you as a senator from Massachusetts, to repudiate those democratic allegations who for political gain would assassinate the character of an honest man."

LaFollette Not On N. Dakota Ballots

BISMARCK, N. D., March 8.—(By the A. P.)—Senator Robert M. LaFollette's name will not go on the presidential preferential primary ballot in North Dakota, March 18, and President Coolidge and Senator Hiram Johnson of California will be the only candidates for Republican endorsement the state supreme court decided today.

The court upheld the decision of District Judge Hugh Lemoine, declaring that the Wisconsin statute be placed on the ballot. The LaFollette supporters contended that the senator was without authority to withdraw his name while forces of Senator Johnson lived attorneys to assist state representatives contending that Senator LaFollette should be permitted to withdraw his name, as he requested.

HAND OF DEATH BECKONS PAT MORAN, WELL-LIKED LEADER OF THE CIN CINNATI REDS

Passed Away at Training Camp in Florida; Hendricks Named As His Successor

ORLANDO, FLA., March 8.—Pat Moran, manager of the Cincinnati Reds, died here Friday of acute nephritis (Bright's disease).

Moran was unconscious for some hours preceding death. Mrs. Moran and her two children were at the bedside. They reached here Friday afternoon. Jack Hendricks, coach of the Reds was also at the bedside.

Moran arrived here last week and on Monday suffered a general breakdown. Four physicians were in constant attendance.

He became unconscious Thursday night and was kept alive by the use of stimulants.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday at Fitchburg, Mass.

Moran's birthplace.

Hope for the manager's life was abandoned Friday, and all efforts were directed towards keeping him alive until his family arrived. The end came peacefully.

Attending physicians said Moran's lungs gradually filled with poison, shorting off his breathing. Moran's last words, addressed to Johnny Evers, were: "Hello John, take me out of here." He then lost consciousness.

Moran's health began to fail during the winter, but he came south with the Reds in spite of his illness. On Monday the break came and he was taken to a hospital where it was believed his condition was not serious. Thursday night, however, his condition became grave and today specialists said only a miracle could save him.

During Moran's illness Hendricks has taken charge of the Reds' training.

CINCINNATI, O., March 8.—Patrick Joseph Moran, veteran baseball player and manager, was a native of Fitchburg, Mass., where he was born February 7, 1876. He obtained his first professional engagement at 19 yrs., N. Y., 27 years ago, and soon graduated into fast company at Montreal.

He was taken by the Boston Nationals in 1901 and soon became the leading backstop of the club.

When the Chicago Cubs began their career of triumph, they bought Moran from Boston. He acted as King's adjutant through all the campaigns of Chance's team and was chief catcher in 1909. After the Cubs ceased to dominate baseball, Moran was sent to Philadelphia where he became manager and won the National League flag of 1915.

Moran left Philadelphia in 1919 and came to Cincinnati. He won the pennant that year and after the conquest of the White Sox in the world series, he was named "the miracle man of the baseball world."

He is survived by a wife and two minor sons—Gabriel and Patrick, Jr.

CINCINNATI, March 8.—Jack Hendricks succeeds Pat Moran as manager of the Cincinnati Nationals. It was announced here last night following receipt of news of the Red leader's death.

Hendricks managed one major league club, the St. Louis Cardinals, several years ago and was and has piloted many pennant winners in the minors. He joined the Cincinnati club this season as coach and assistant manager.

Body To Be Shipped North
ORLANDO, FLA., March 8.—(By the Associated Press)—The body of Pat Moran, pilot of the Cincinnati Reds, lay in state here today before removal to a late afternoon train for the last trip northward home.

Moran died late yesterday after an illness of four days. He lapsed into unconsciousness Thursday night, and while his wife and two children hurried to his side, life slowly ebbed, until yesterday after a faint smile flickered across his face, at the mention of his wife's name, he passed on. Mrs. Moran, the children and team mates were at the bedside.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday at Fitchburg, Mass., Moran's birthplace. Ivy Wingo and George Harper as representatives of the Cincinnati Club, will accompany the body to Jacksonville, where Moran's brother will meet it.

The Reds went into mourning for forty-eight hours immediately after their leader died.

Moran arrived at training headquarters here last week and on Monday suffered a general breakdown. He was taken to a hospital and four doctors were in constant attendance. Brightening the scene, announced as acute nephritis. Only medical skill and the application of stimulants kept Moran alive until his wife reached his side.

Moran's death, team mates said, came when they were looking forward to a successful season, with the hope of repeating the victories of 1919, when under his leadership, they captured the National League and the world's championship.

Moran was considered one of the premier catchers in his playing days. As a manager, he was successful. His players considered his word law and cheerfully obeyed him. His baseball career dates back twenty-seven years when he played at Lyons, N. J. He broke into the major leagues in 1901, when he joined the Boston Nationals. He was forty-eight years old.

BAKE LIKES GOLF
HOT SPRINGS, Ark., March 8.—Thirty-five holes of golf constituted a day's work for "Babe" Ruth, the Yankee slugger who has been ill of influenza for ten days.

"The Babe is still weak, but otherwise appeared none the worse for his illness."

PAT MORAN, PEERLESS LEADER, IS CALLED OUT BY THE GREAT UMPIRE

Fine Manager, Fair Fighter, McGraw's Tribute to Moran

NEW YORK, March 8.—Tribute to Pat Moran was paid by John J. McGraw, manager of the Giants, in a dispatch from Sarasota, Florida.

"Pat Moran was a fine manager, a fair fighter and a credit to the game of baseball," McGraw said.

"He was a great player, he was a great manager, for he knew how to handle men."

Relating his experiences with Moran when he engaged him as assistant manager in 1918, McGraw declared he had suggested him as manager of the Cincinnati Reds.

"He went there," he added, "and beat the Giants for the pennant in that year, showing great ability and skill."

"He was one of the best judges of pitchers I ever knew. The Cincinnati staff of today is a witness of that."

The fast P. H. S. basketball team, after defeating the hard fighting Lancaster aggregation at Lancaster last night, left this morning for Chillicothe to go after their last opponent this season. The locals are confident of repeating their first defeat to Chillicothe, after having trounced Lancaster on the floor, a team which has in turn trampled over some of the best teams in Central Ohio.

The locals, unlike their usual game, piled up their score in the first half at Lancaster last night, and showed down in the last half. This newly caused their defeat for the Lancaster crowd played hard and brought the 12-11 lead down to 11-12 before the final whistle blew.

McLamb's men played a consistent game the first half of the set-to and had things coming much their way. In the last half however they made only one field goal to the eight points run up by the Fairfield County five.

The first-half blow, as has been the case in most of Firpo's victories, was a tremendous right to the jaw.

In the early part of the fight Firpo used his left, which he is trying to develop, but the two-handed style did not come natural to him and he reverted to his customary right after the fifth round when Spalla took the offensive. The Italian punished the Argentine severely in the infighting, but Firpo pursued his relentless campaign to the ultimate result.

Firpo weighed 210½ and Spalla 184½.

BUENOS AIRES, March 8.—Luis Firpo is still champion of South America and logical contender for the return bout with the world champion, Jack Dempsey. Last night the wild bull of the Pampas turned back the invasion from Italy by knocking out Erenio Spalla in the fourteenth round of their fifteen round go at the River Plate football field. A bare 30,000 persons saw the fight.

Grain Prices Undergo Setback

CHICAGO, March 8.—Wheat prices underwent a moderate setback today during the early transactions. Traders appeared to lean to the view that bullish aspects of the wheat market had been discounted in advance, and that the proclamation was really an incentive to sellers because accompanied by an unexpected reduction in the tariff on mill feeds. Continued bullish gossip about the McNary-Jaeger bill lent also to weaken the market. Opening prices which ranged from the low to the high, were: May, 1.11 1/2 to 1.12 1/2; July, 1.11 1/2 to 1.12 1/2; were followed by a general setback to well below yesterday's finish.

Wheat closed steady to a shade lower to the gain; May, 1.11 1/2 to 1.12 1/2; and July, 1.11 1/2 to 1.12 1/2.

Clear cold weather likely to facilitate corn shipments led to a decline in corn and oats. After opening 1/4 lower, May, 47 1/2 to 47 1/2; later, the downturn became more pronounced.

Provisions were quiet but firm.

NEW YORK, March 8.—Renewed liquidation of French government and municipal bonds accompanied today's fresh break in the franc.

Active issues extended their losses to an average of about a point in the early dealings, the Republic 7 1/2's and and eight showing declines of almost four points for the week. The sharp drop in Belgian exchange also was reflected in weakness of that government's bonds. Trading was restricted in other sections of the list, and price changes were narrow.

Paul Railroad obligations held their gains well in the face of profit-taking and buying of Chicago and Alton 2 1/2's was resumed.

AGRICULTURAL NOTES

Call Your Seed Corn
The seed corn situation is considered serious in Ohio this year by the Department of the Ohio State University. This conclusion is based on a summary of seed corn testing work now being done by Smith-Hughes Agricultural teachers throughout the state. The tests show considerable variation in the condition of corn from one community to another as was expected. In general throughout the northern half of the state the reports show that the only corn of high germination are those lots that were selected early in the fall and carefully dried, or those that were stored with artificial heat of some kind.

"The situation is not as bad as in 1918, but it is bad enough to justify a great deal of time and effort in cutting and testing," is the recommendation of J. R. Park, Professor of Farm Crops at Ohio State University. He says that few tests have been reported from Southern Ohio to date, but observations indicate that the seed corn of Southern Ohio is in better condition than that of Northern Ohio.

In most cases corn testing will not be necessary for Scioto county farmers, but careful culling of seed corn is far more necessary this spring than any year since 1918. This culling should mean the discarding of ears showing disease as indicated by discolored grains and various molds, as well as frozen germs.

The culling demonstrations conducted by Mr. W. E. Hanger at the Lucasville corn show revealed the fact that more corn in Scioto county should be culled on account of disease than for poor germination. Planting diseased ears of corn or grain showing a trace of disease usually means the reproduction of a weakened stalk of corn and reduced yields.

Points to be considered in culling seed corn may be received in circular form upon request at this Farm Bureau office or by calling 344 and giving your address, which will entitle you to this circular. To arm Bureau and County Agent can best serve him or her who makes their wants known.

Stock Needs Pasture
A permanent pasture economy is now more than ever a pressing need for all Ohio livestock producers.

Raising this statement at a recent study of pastures in Southeastern Ohio, soil specialists at the Ohio State University point out that the carrying capacity of permanent pasture in this area has dropped to less than one half of that maintained 20 years ago.

Since 1920 demonstrations on the effect of acid phosphate and limestone have been conducted in nearly every county in eastern Ohio, and fundamentally the treatment has been the use of acid phosphate and limestone.

Our conclusion is that 400 pounds of acid phosphate should be applied on the soil as it stands. Limestone should also be applied as a top dressing in sufficient amounts to neutralize the acidity of the soil. Improvement may be hastened in some pastures by plowing with a disc or spring toothed harrow to loosen the soil, particularly if brownedged covers the soil.

When rejuvenating pasture lands, sowing the seeds of the grasses is a waste of money. The soil is not in condition to support tame grasses until it has gone through a clover cycle of about three or four years.

Alsike clover will undoubtedly have not already some Japan clover growing on it. This plant will help in any district south of the latitude of Columbus.

Timely Soil Topics for March, written by Earl E. Burgess, discusses this permanent pasture economy. A card addressed to the State Agricultural College, Columbus, or the Scioto County Farm Bureau office, will obtain a copy.

During the past year about 15 pasture improvement demonstrations have been started in Scioto county. On May 29 of this year a tour of these various farms will be made by over 200 farmers of the county. It is hoped that many city residents will avail themselves of this opportunity to visit these farms and see the admirable progress being made on Scioto farms in the way of scientific improvement of pasture lands.

Mr. Thos. H. Bennett of Minford, who with Mrs. Bennett has been visiting during the past week at the home of M. H. Shumway of this city, was a visitor yesterday to the Farm Bureau office. Mr. Bennett reports that good results were obtained last year on his one acre pasture demonstration plot. He says his son-in-law, Ezra Kolmer, expects to treat more pasture land this spring.

Land Reclamation
While at the farm of John P. Miller at Lick run this week County Agent W. E. Gahm was shown a field which Mr. Miller states was reclaimed from land that a few years ago was entirely waste. A small stream had so crossed and re-crossed a small tract of bottom land that there was very little tillable land available. Mr. Miller, with some efforts succeeded in channeling with the results that today he has about two acres of additional land for cultivation which he considers the best soil on his farm. What Mr. Miller has accomplished on this piece of land can be done by scores of other farmers throughout the county with small expense.

Mr. Miller had called the county agent to his farm to make arrangements for beginning a 6 acre alfalfa demonstration plot. This field will be sown to sweet clover this spring as a preparatory crop to the alfalfa.

Congress

give the reduction right of way so as to relieve the uncertainty of the tax payers this month. Also, the Treasury depends for its financing operations and its borrowings on the steady flow of funds from all sources. The payment of income tax returns is being delayed because of a belief that Congress may put into law before March 15 the reduction of 1923 incomes. If Congress is going to act, therefore, the Treasury would like to see quick action one way or the other.

It would be a simple matter for both Houses to give right of way to the joint resolution providing a 25 per cent cut on 1923 incomes. The President and Secretary of the Treasury have approved it and the two parties are agreed upon the principle involved. For a time it looked as if the Republicans would keep the provision for a 1923 reduction in the general tax bill in the hope of accelerating its progress through the Senate but it looks now as if the main tax measure will not be through Congress before June 30 when the next fiscal year begins and it would be embarrassing to the Treasury to leave the question of 1923 income unsettled with the prospect of being required to relate funds already received. About 75 per cent of the tax payers send their money to the Treasury in quarterly installments so the Treasury would have to arrange for a rebate to at least one fourth of the number of tax payers which means more than 1,500,000 persons. The book keeping alone involved in making out checks and arranging rebates would be an added expense to the Treasury all of which can be avoided by prompt action before March 15.

The theory back of the 25 per cent reduction of incomes is that a surplus of $222,000,000 having been accumulated during 1923, the tax payers should be given the benefit of it. Just what effect the soldier bonus may have on the situation is not yet apparent for if the champions of the adjusted compensation act wish they could hold up the reduction of 1923 incomes with the plea that the money could better be applied to the first payments on the bonds. On the other hand, there are those who believe that the 25 per cent reduction sets a precedent for 1924 incomes and if the main tax bill doesn't go beyond that measure.

25 per cent there will be money to pass a bonus bill as well as a no-tax measure.

Road Boosters Open Drive For Right of Way and Funds Needed
A. T. Pack and other workers of the South Portsmouth-Fullerton Good Roads Association, and those interested in the movement, have launched a drive to secure a right-of-way for the proposed hard surface highway from Greenup, along the Ohio river, to the Lewis county line and are also taking pledges in a campaign to raise $50,000 in the way of voluntary contributions to boost the project.

It is important that the canvass be thorough and that it meets the proper reception. Mr. Pack points out, because the results must be presented to the Greenup fiscal court next Monday, to be transmitted to the state highway commission. Only

PASSING OF THE "COLONELS"

THE picturesque figure of the Blue Grass region, the "Kentucky Colonel," is threatened with extinction if the governor of that state heeds the protest of the Veterans of Foreign Wars against the appointment of civilians to his staff. Through this custom, it is asserted, politicians who never wore a uniform or smelled powder, have acquired a military title. There are more of this type to the square foot in Kentucky than in any other state. But they bore their dignity so charmingly that the rest of the country, who knew them through fiction and the movies, must regret their threatened disappearance. Happily, that will be gradual. No retroactive law can be passed abolishing the titles already acquired. Future state executives will no longer confer the honor, and with the passing of the present holders the species will be extinct.

The thirteenth amendment wiped out slavery; the eighteenth drove John Barleycorn to the hills and the moonshiners; the auto is pushing the horse to the side of the road, and now the Veterans of Foreign Wars threaten the proud overlord of them all, the "Kentucky Colonel," with extinction. But, one is tempted to argue on behalf of the delightful colonel, is it any more incongruous to bestow a military title on a civilian than to confer a civil degree, as L. L. D., on a military man, as was done by our colleges on several heroes of the late war? Maybe it would be best to limit the practice of conferring degrees or titles in both cases.

To Extend Volley Ball Season

At a meeting of the B Volley Ball League last evening at the high school building all teams were represented with the exception of the Minsters. It was decided to bring the season to a close on March 26 as previously planned, awarding the pennant at that time, but to reorganize immediately at the close and go ahead for at least another month, any teams or players wishing to quit at the close of the regular season being permitted to do so.

It was the unanimous opinion of the meeting that hereafter the B

U. B. Sunday School News

When young William Haney calls the United Brethren Sunday School to order tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock a very unusual session of the school will begin.

The children's department of the school under the leadership of Miss Lena Erick, have wanted the chance to have charge of the school for some time and tomorrow this ambition of theirs will be realized.

The young acting superintendent has announced some of his plans which include a children's chorus choir, a girls' quartette, a scripture sketch, "Children of Other Days," Miss Irene Stone will also be on the program which means a fine program throughout the entire hour.

The cast of characters of the biblical sketch is as follows:

The Leader—Edith Yates.
The Fisher—L. J. Joseph.
The Five Virgins—R. Throckmorton, M. Brumfield, E. McCarty, E. Bower, J. Adams.

David—William Haney.
Jonathan—Earl Cannon.
Miriam—E. Samson.
Moses—Donald Yeolker.
Joseph—Wm. Stitzer.
Isaac—H. Wedbrook.

The school tomorrow morning is 9:20 and the children in charge the attendance figure will, no doubt reach the total aimed for.

NEW YORK DAY-BY-DAY

BY O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, March 8.—Few know the heart tugs that follow the end of a theatrical run in New York when the players begin the pilgrimage to the provinces. A year's run in a theatre brings many close knit attachments.

A hundred, and many times more, persons are in close and intimate contact daily for many hours. There is a camaraderie existing among all—the scene shifters, back office employees, players and ushers. When the call board announces the close of a play there is always weeping.

It means the breaking up of happy companionship. There are many who refuse to leave New York. So new faces appear. Apartments and homes must be given up for the strange atmosphere of hotel rooms in strange and lonely cities.

Daughters must leave their mothers, husbands their wives, and girls and men their sweethearts. The final night is always tinged with sadness. Performers go through their parts in a flood of melancholy memories. The time has come to say good-bye to old scenes, old friends. Stage folk are invariably sentimentalists. It is the custom to say the final goodbye to the old stage doorman the last thing. He is in many cases a sort of father confessor for the troupe. He has for months shared their confidences—their joys and sorrows.

As a rule, there is a midnight dinner on the stage the final night. The laughter of stars unbends. She fraternizes with her sisters of the chorus. She has pleasant words for the men of the chorus who have gazed at her for months from chilling depths.

Even the producer gets into the spirit of the farewell and joins the gathering. All the petty bickerings of the spot-light world vanish under the mellow communion proceeding a farewell.

There is some danger in the wrist watch after all. The hostess of a Greenwich Village midnight speakeasy became angered at a patron who complained about the excessive charge. In a flurry of temper she struck at him and in defense he threw up his wrist that carried a watch. The hand of the hostess struck the crystal and cracked it. A silver of glass entered her finger. Infection followed and for six weeks she was in a hospital.

There is a little apartment on West 19th street from which emanates most of the pot-boiler, mystery and detective stories for cheaper magazines. The apartment is occupied by three young writers who specialize in thrills and shudders, mysterious noises, vanishing jewels and letters in blood. One enters in the afternoon to hear three types.

"Don't you all worry, boss, I ain't crazy," was the quick and emphatic reply. "Them fellows is organizing."

Zero Locals
When Good-Eve Jones sneezed in front of the post-office, quite a crowd collected to watch him fish his new glass eye out of the knothole in the sidewalk.

"We never had a good rain," said Puzzlehead Parker, "but it brought grief to me. Molly shot my best dog just 'cause he jumped up in the bed without cleaning his feet."

Some town folks went through Tedleg Paterson's drift fence and left the gate open. So when Peg got his butt out of the town pond last night, he left the gate open to get even.

"I wouldn't mind Pap given me Easter Day," said Buster Parker, "if he'd just keep his knees out of my stunk an' not 'nol' my nose."

Their Safeguard

A speaker at a farmers' rally told this story in the course of a lively and forceful address on Organization:

"A negro down South, noted for his remarkable handling of the whip, was out driving one day with his boss. Seeing a beautiful rose in bloom along the roadside, Sam cracked his whip and cut off the rose, which he gave to his boss."

"Thank you, Sam," the latter said.

"Presently a cotton-tail rabbit jumped out of a thicket nearby. Sam again cracked his whip high, snatched the rabbit into the rig and also presented it to his boss."

"A little further along they saw a hornet's nest on an overhanging limb of a tree. The boss, fearing Sam might try his skill on it, exclaimed, 'Sam, don't touch that nest!'"

"Don't you all worry, boss, I ain't crazy," was the quick and emphatic reply. "Them fellows is organizing."
